

School of Professional Psychology
Request to Withdraw from the Doctoral Program

Purpose: From time to time, a student may decide to withdraw from the program. Rationale for requesting withdrawal may include health or other bona fide reasons.

A student who contemplates withdrawing from the program should first discuss the issue with the academic advisor and explore alternate options. Once the decision to withdraw has been reached, the student should complete this form and submit it to the Associate Dean. The student will be required to bring appropriate closure to her/his/their involvement in coursework, practicum and other academic, service or professional activities associated with the School and University.
